BASKETS AND DECOR

Using mostly plant-based materials, Rebecca Gaut of Beam & Branch hand-dyes lengths of cotton rope then weaves them into striped baskets accented with leather — no two are alike.

POTTERY

Looking at the vases and platters created by Forrest Lesch-Middelton of FLM Ceramics, you might think they hail from another time and place. Using image transfer techniques, he evokes the look of an ancient civilization.

JEWELRY

The seasonal collections of Robindira Unsworth can be found in boutiques worldwide, but Petaluma is her home base. Her statement pieces combine rustic silver and gold with one-of-a-kind stones.

LEATHER BAGS

Under the label Pennyroyal Design,

Jennifer Conner creates exquisite handmade leather bags. The midsize Dany bag, with its soft exterior and exaggerated buckle tail, is perfect for toting essentials in style, and a coin pouch becomes a conversation starter covered in black and white cowhide.

SOAP AND SKINCARE

Made with all-natural ingredients and packaged sustainably, the soap, shampoo, and body bars from Three Sisters Apothecary are feel-good luxury. They smell incredible, too: blood orange and cardamom, and Mission fig and honey.

BROOMS AND WHISKS

The humble broom is an heirloom piece in the hands of artist Alissa Kaplan. They're fully functional — but hand-tied, Shaker-style, with broomcorn, twine, and locally sourced black walnut, cottonwood, and willow, they're pretty enough to display.
