Whether you can quote every line from the 1961 film or you simply enjoy the classics, you can now cross "Eat breakfast at Tiffany's" off of your bucket list! Tucked away in South Coast Plaza's recently relocated Tiffany & Co., Tiffany's Blue Box Cafe is serving up exquisite bites for its Breakfast for Two and Tea for Two menus. And with the rest of the jewelry shop's beautiful changes, this cafe is the perfect way to start (or end!) a sparkly shopping spree.

A Treat for the Eyes

From the moment you walk into Tiffany & Co.'s new space, you're greeted with a grand juxtaposition of familiarity and innovation. The store is detailed with classic Wheat Leaf designs as well as a stunning mural by Yoon Hyup, which echoes the shapes and hues of our California landscape. Once inside the cafe, you're surrounded by luxe materials, and you'll also get your fix of that signature blue we all know and love; it's on the walls, chairs and even the tableware.

“You can now cross “Eat breakfast at Tiffany’s” off of your bucket list!”

Costa Mesa

(Almost) Too Beautiful to Eat

• As to be expected, anything presented by Tiffany's Blue Box Cafe is sure to be aesthetically gorgeous, and this includes the cafe's signature packages. Currently, the cafe offers a colorful and locally sourced breakfast package (with or without gluten) and a tea package packed with delightful bites and a truly unique Blue Box Celebration Cake. And if you think food tastes better on a Tiffany's plate—because let's face it, it really does—you can upgrade and order a package that includes the accompanying China set.

It's in the Details

• Tiffany & Co. has always had a penchant for detail, so it's no surprise that the retailer is going the extra mile for its cafe guests. One of these special features is the wrapping station inside the Blue Box Cafe—a true celebration of the company's long-standing tradition of gift-giving. Within these pretty blue walls, shoppers can also find a personalization counter where they can add extra sentiment to their items with customized engravings. These special touches create a bridge between the dining and shopping experiences.

From Coast to Coast

• What's better than one Blue Box Cafe? Two Blue Box Cafes! Tiffany & Co.'s first cafe opened in its flagship store on Fifth Ave in NYC but is currently closed for revamping. The New York store is slated to reopen in 2022.

“I'd Rather Be Natural”

• It's no secret that mining for precious natural resources—especially diamonds—has taken a toll on our planet, which is why Tiffany & Co. upholds its commitment to only work with sustainable and responsibly mined materials.

The World Is Your Oyster

• South Coast Plaza's new Tiffany & Co. store boasts an impressive retail area of about 12,000 square feet—almost double the size of its previous location! ■
