

Email subject line: Snow's Here, Let's Hit The Slopes!

THE SEASON HAS ARRIVED! ARE YOU READY?

Snow is looking good for skiing and riding enthusiasts at Palisades and Alpine.

With 3 feet of snow expected to drop between now and Friday, mountain operations is busy opening as much terrain as possible, and excited to announce that nearly all lifts and terrain are expected to open this week, as well as the Base to Base Gondola, which will run daily.

Enjoy This New Snow!

Know Before You Go

Many travelers are expected to arrive throughout the week, with most arriving this weekend. This could mean increased road traffic, extended lift wait times and limited spots on the mountain. Lift wait times are available online

To ensure you get your time on the mountain, purchase:

- an Ikon Pass,
- lift tickets
- or a ski package prior to arrival.

Heavy winds are expected to last throughout the weekend and could impact operations. Check road conditions and travel time beforehand.
