

The most recent national data reveals @sandiegounified reported 982 students to police during the 2017-18 school year.

That's by far the most of all school districts in San Diego County.

With rates higher than the national average, the district disproportionately reported Black children and students with disabilities.

The district's Black students were reported to police at rates 34% higher than their white counterparts.

Children with disabilities made up over 30% of @sandiegounified's referrals but account for only 14% of the district's student population.

Alba Community Day School

has the highest referral rate in the county.

Some Alba kids are there because they're transitioning out of the juvenile court system.

Its rate is more than 60 times the national average.

It's reported nine of its 33 students to police.

More than 10% of the kids who @sandiegounified reported to police were elementary school students.

San Diego Unified schools with highest rates of reporting kids to police:

Alba Community Day School

Riley Alternative School

Mark Twain High

Knox Middle

Bell Middle